

Mr Hazlan

I believe the aim of education in school is not to create knowledgeable students in the technical sense, but virtuous citizens who could live wisely and justly. Ethics, self-examination and responsibility must be emphasized over mere acquisition of skills. I encourage students to embrace intellectual humility and remain curious seekers of knowledge. Education in my class is not just about facts but about developing the ability to reason, question and pursue virtue.

Teacher

York Hill
Campus

Teaching Subject: Malay Language

Learners for Life. Leaders of Integrity. Contributors with Compassion.