

Mr Martin Lee Tze Chuen

For me, education is about sparking and sustaining the curiosity that still lives within every learner. I believe every student can grow when they feel safe, understood, and meaningfully challenged. Some of my most fulfilling moments in teaching come from being fully present, listening, guiding, and witnessing the quiet confidence that emerges when students begin to believe in themselves. As a Science teacher, I find joy in the moments when curiosity lights up their eyes and in learning alongside them. To me, being an educator means journeying with each child as they grow into the best version of themselves.
