HOD Humanities

As an educator, I am inspired by William D. Adams' words: "The humanities remind us where we have been, help us understand where we are, and give us the tools to imagine where we might go next." Teaching humanities is not just about delivering content, it is about inspiring students to become informed, engaged, and compassionate members of society. I strive to empower them to explore diverse perspectives, challenge assumptions, and develop a deeper understanding of our interconnected world.

I embrace leadership opportunities to support teachers in navigating change, guiding them through new initiatives, and helping them adapt to evolving educational practices. By fostering collaboration and innovation, we can continue to meet the diverse needs of our students, preparing them for success in an ever-changing world.

Learners for Life. Leaders of Integrity. Contributors with Compassion.
